The Real Estate Exchange

Presents

The 2007 Connecticut Blue Ribbon Awards

The Real Estate Exchange will present the 2007 Connecticut Blue Ribbon Awards – the premier real estate awards program in Connecticut – on Wednesday, March 28, 2007.

In conjunction with the awards, The Real Estate Exchange will host the 2007 Developers Showcase, an exhibit of up and coming developments throughout the state.

Applicants Include Projects from all Real Estate Categories

Within the 2007 Blue Ribbon Competition schools and educational facilities constitute the greatest numbers of entries. Public elementary schools include The Hartford Classical Magnet School, the Sarah J. Rawson Elementary School, The James H. Naylor Elementary School, and the Noah Webster School; each is located in Hartford.

College and Universities are represented by specialized buildings including The Michael J. Adanti Student Center at Southern Connecticut State University, the SINA/Trinity Community Sports Complex, and the Yale Bowl Restoration in New Haven. Specialized school candidates include the Connecticut Culinary Institute in Hartford

Retail and mixed use projects include The Shoppes at Church Hill and Queen, Newtown, the L.A. Fitness adaptive reuse of a theater in Stamford, and two car dealerships at Weston Street, Hartford: Harte Subaru and CarMax.

Several applicants involve newly created or refurbished office structures: the Robert N. Giomo Federal Building in New Haven, the Northeast Utilities

Services Company Windsor Facility, Beazley USA Corporate offices in Farmington, and 1477 Park Street, Hartford.

There are two medical office applicants: ECHN @ Evergreen Walk in South Windsor, and the Gaylord Wellness Center in North Haven.

Several residential redevelopment projects are under consideration, including Quinipiac Terrace in New Haven, Brick Hollow Homes in Hartford, and Dutch Point Revitalization in Hartford. Downtown Hartford residential and mixed use projects include The Lofts and Townhouses in former Sage Allen Department store in Hartford, and Hartford 21, a luxury apartment tower adjacent to the Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Church structures are represented within the applicants. First Church of Christ, Congregational in Farmington created classrooms and offices. In New Haven the former St. Peter's Parish Hall now serves as a Performing Arts Center for the Betsy Ross Arts Magnet School.

A river front park in Norwich and the New Britain Museum of American Art expand the range of applicants.

I am honored to have been chosen to serve as President of the Real Estate Exchange this year, and what better way to begin my presidency than to immerse myself in the history of the organization? Last month, eight other members of the Exchange and I devoted an evening to go through boxes of old documents, culling through minutes from meetings long ago, past policies and procedures, old programs, and pictures in preparation for our first big project of the year—archiving. In order to keep the organization moving forward, we must rely on the work of those who came before us—some of the records of which had been forgotten and stored away in boxes in members' basements or garages. The plan to collect the documentary history of the Exchange all in one place and make it accessible to the membership has been in the works for years, and those efforts are finally coming to fruition. We compiled the documents we intend to keep and soon will have them digitally stored to be able to pass on to those who come after us.

In reviewing the history, it humbled me to see pictures of longtime members attending year after year of programs and events, and giving their time to make the Exchange what it is today. It also energizes me to now be among many of those same women and men, as I put my thoughts, time and efforts into heading-up the organization in this, our 20th anniversary year! We have much to do and much to look forward to in 2007. One of my main goals for the year is to work with the Membership Committee to increase our membership with a focus on mid-level experienced professionals. My aim is to boost our numbers while targeting those prospective members who are at the right stage in their lives/careers to be able to commit to a certain level of involvement in the Exchange. Another of my goals for the year is to include some "women specific" programming—not at the exclusion of our male membership, whom we value dearly, but to add a program or two on a topic of interest to our female members. CREW Network, the national organization with which we are affiliated, focuses on many women's issues and promoting parity in the industry, and I'd like to see some of that trickle down to the local level. The Program Committee is already planning a luncheon for the Fall with this in mind. The Executive Committee has also already taken an active role in moving the organization forward, working on a new and improved website, and as I mentioned above, archiving of our historic documents. There is more to do, but this is a taste of what I will be focusing on in the coming months.

In addition to the above, we have many exciting things in store for both members and non-members in 2007: our signature event, the 12th Annual Developers Showcase and Connecticut Real Estate Awards, is just around the corner, two public forums presented by the Program Committee in addition to the State of the State, two prospective member functions, several professional development events, and more than a few social events, including a 20th Anniversary Celebration. All of these events should provide great opportunities for networking and the chance to continue to foster our relationships with one another. I am looking forward to working with you and getting to know each of you a little bit better in the coming year.
